Little Darlings

By: Julia Satel

Disclaimer: I don't own characters, there all your George. I know.

Author Note: I would like to welcome all thoughts nice or even mean. (A girl can only take so much mean things.) I would also like to thank the people who give input on my other stories. (Like Kari and Theed, that (almost) all the time reviews my stories.) And that I know that there are many stories like this out there, but this is my way. Okay I'm shutting up.

Another Author Note: Amidala is the one is the talking. (But you should know that if you are a Star Wars fan.) Okay for real I am being quiet and getting to the story.

I hold my two darlings in my arms. I am tired, but I know they are going to leave me soon. So I want to spend every second with my darlings.

We are on the ship 'One Destiny'. The one destiny that is going to bring these darlings back together.

My first darling is Luke. He has his father's looks. With his sandy blond hair, and the eyes. His eyes. That are now the eyes of our son, no my son. The blue eyes that I fell for are now Luke's. I kiss his sleeping head.

My second darling is Leia. She is so much like me. With dark hair and dark brown eyes. She is so beautiful, I think through tears. She looks like an angel. An angel that Anakin once called me. I kiss her cheek not waking her up.

I look at them. Sleeping peacefully not knowing what is going on. That the galaxy as we know it is crumbling. Obi-Wan and Yoda say that these two are the only hope for the whole galaxy. Maybe they will undo all their father has done.

I want to keep my darlings little darlings with me. But I know that would be impossible. He would find me and then them. I want to keep them as safe as I can.

My blue eye darling is going with Obi-Wan to the planet Tatooine. Like his father, but not a slave. Obi-Wan and I know that Anakin, no Vader would not return to Tatooine. Luke will be a farmer. Not the best life, but there are much, much worse. He will be raised by Obi-Wan's half brother and sister-in-law Owen and Beru Lars. Beru is sweet and softhearted. She also wants a child badly, but is unable to. They will only be his Uncle and Aunt. He will go by the last name of Skywalker. That is a wish of mine, to keep at least something of the past. I have a feeling that he will be a great Jedi when he is older, or at least a great pilot.

My little dark darling I will take to the beautiful planet Alderaan. She will be raised as a princess. Bail, my dear friend will be her father. And the most wonderful father he will be I know to my darling. She will after many years will be Queen. Like I was. She will be the best leader.

Their future is as uncertain as their past. They will find each other. I know it and I don't even carry a lightsaber.
